Every youngster skipped along to school this morning delighted and exclaimed, "Gee, isn't it great!" There was certainly a large amount of pep in the air and shortly football will be shelved and ice hockey and ski jumping will take its place. This week the local Winter Sports Association is endeavoring to replenish the exchecquor. You can contribute and at the same time enjoy yourself with an evening of high class entertainment. Keep the Winter Sports organization active and healthy. It means rugged men and women of the future, this encouragement of proper sports.

HELD WITHOUT BAIL IN MURDER CASE

Wife of Alphonse Cote of Gorham, Me., Charged With Being Accessory Before the Fact--Probe Old Mystery

(By Associated Press)

Portland, Me., Nov. 17—Mrs. Lottie Freeman Cote of Gorham and Charles H. Fielding, a plumber of this city, were held without bail for the January term of the Superior court as a result of their alleged conspiracy to slay Alphonse Cote, husband of the woman, whose body was found in a secret grave at Gorham Saturday night. In the warrant lodged against Mrs. Cote and Fielding, the former was charged with being an accessory before the fact in the murder. Fielding was charged with murder. With the alleged admissions from the trio as to how Cote met his death the authorities concentrated their attention today on the story of the disappearance of William Sanborn, the first husband of Mrs. Cote. He was reported to have disappeared from the farm in 1919.

RAIDERS CUT OFF LOS ANGELES WATER

Gates of Big Acqueduct Opened in Water Rights Feud

(By Associated Press)

Los Angeles, Nov. 17—How to restore without bloodshed the flow of water through Los Angeles 250 mile acqueduct diverted into Owen's river yesterday by raiders, who swooped upon the waste gates near Lone Pine, 200 miles north of her, despite protests by city employes and Inyo county officials was the problem that faced Los Angeles authorities today. The ultimatum delivered by the raiders was that the gates would remain open until Los Angeles settled the Owens Valley water rights feud on a basis satisfactory to the valley ranchers and business men. No attempt at forcible ejection of the raiders will be made by the city pending Governor Richardson's reply to an appeal for state troops, Los Angeles officials said, but 75 civil complaints were prepared for filing in superior court, asking injunctions to dispossess the raiders.

OVERNIGHT AIR MAIL SERVICE TO CHICAGO

New York, Nov. 16.—The government has blazed the trail for an 8 to 9 hour overnight air mail service between New York and Chicago, both ways, it has been disclosed by Carl F. Egge, general superintendent of the postoffice department's airmail service.

Routes have been mapped; terminals, way stations and emergency fields are being acquired; machines and personnel have been assigned; and all the powerful lighting equipment for night flying is being set up.

Col. Paul Henderson, second assistant postmaster-general, has ordered the new service installed early next spring, probably in April. This, said Mr. Egge, will give the government "a double-track" airmail system between here and Chicago and, with a transcontinental service covering 2,700 miles, will make a total of 1,905 miles over which night flying will be continuous.

Thus night flying would be in progress over the entire trans-continental route and there would be two deliveries of air mail daily, instead of one, at all points along the route. The air mail service would "double-track" throughout as soon as the demand of patrons westward from Chicago promise to make it feasible.

Night mail will leave the New York terminal at 10 p. m., reaching Chicago nine hours later (6a m.) for distribution with the first regular delivery.

Night mail will leave the Chicago air terminal at 9 p. m., reaching New York, eight hours later (6 a. m.) also for the day's first delivery. Due to prevailing winds, the westward flight will be an hour longer.

Mr. Egge pointed out that the best mail train time between the two cities now is 20 hours, and virtually two days are lost in the transaction of business by train mail. But with the air mail, he said, a 10-hour service from postoffice to postoffice would be maintained. Letters mailed at the close of business in a terminal city or any intervening air mail station would be at destination for the opening of business the next day. In the meantime, the trans-continental service will continue on the schedule inaugurated last July 1, with departures from the established terminals at New York and San Francisco each morning.

NEW HAMPSHIRE ROUTS BATES, 30 TO 0

Durham, Nov. 11—The University of New Hampshire eleven closed the season today by defeating Bates, 30 to 0 on Memorial Field.

New Hampshire, time after time, rushed the ball half the length of the field, only to lose it on fumbles near the goal line. Using straight football the home backs tore big holes in the visitors line, the first two touchdowns being the result of line busking.

In the last period the second team ran the Bates team ragged, scoring 16 points.

Applin, scrub fullback, playing in his second game of the year, starred in the last few minutes of play when he kicked a neat field goal, later following with a 50-yard run for a touchdown and a goal from touchdown. Eddie O'Connor, star New Hampshire halfback, hurt one leg in the last period and was carried from the field. The summary:

CONVENTION OPPOSED BY 2 TO 1 VOTE

The official vote on the question "Is it advisable that a convention be called to revise the constitution?" which was submitted by referendum to the people in the state election shows that the convention was not favored, the vote being almost two to one against calling a convention.

The total vote was:

No 42,616
Yes 22,520

The total vote on the referendum proposition was 65,136, while at the same time 166,854 people voted for presidential electors. These figures indicate that considerably less than one half the voters of the state marked their ballot with reference to calling a constitutional convention.

The vote on the referendum by counties was as follows:

A large number of members of Freedom Temple attended the convention at Exeter last Friday afternoon and evening.

The M. O. A. Club has again resumed its regular meetings after an interrupted summer of many good times. On Oct. 3 Mrs. Alice McFadden had the first indoor meeting at her home with 12 members present. On Oct. 17 Mrs. Melvin Peters entertained all but two of the members. It was her last meeting before moving to California. We dislike very much to lose her and wish her and Mr. Peters a pleasant sea trip down the east coast, through the Panama Canal, then up the west coast to San Francisco, and hope they will like California. Mrs. Helen Hobbs had a Hallowe'en party for the club on Oct. 31, when games and guessing contests were enjoyed. The next meeting was held at Mrs. Effie Marston's home on Friday and a quilt was tacked.

Harmony Council, Jr. O. U. A. M., will hold a union meeting Monday at the Town Hall.

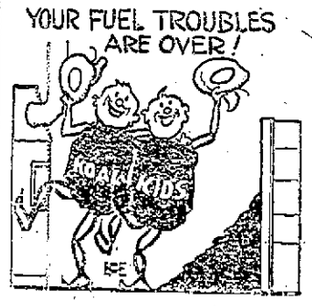

BETTER THAN CALOMEL
Thousands Have Discovered Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are a Harmless Substitute

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets—the substitute for calomel—are a mild but sure laxative, and their effect on the liver is almost instantaneous. These little olive-colored tablets are the result of Dr. Edwards' determination not to treat liver and bowel complaints with calomel.

The pleasant little tablets do the good that calomel does, but have no bad after effects. They don't injure the teeth like strong liquids or calomel. They take hold of the trouble and quickly correct it. Why cure the liver at the expense of the teeth? Calomel sometimes plays havoc with the gums. So do strong liquids. It is best not to take calomel. Let Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets take its place.

Headaches, "dullness" and that lazy feeling come from constipation and a disordered liver. Take Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets when you feel "logy" and "heavy." They "clear" clouded brain and "perk up" the spirits. 15c and 30c.

BUTTED BY GOAT ASKS DAMAGES

Lowell Woman Sues Owner of Animal for $1500

Boston, Nov. 15.—A billy goat is responsible for a damage suit brought in the Middlesex Superior Court, East Cambridge, by Mrs. Virginia Gosselin of Lowell. She alleges that about noon on Sept. 5, as she was on her way home from church and walking by the premises of the defendant, Anastasios Kratmenos, 136 Farmland road, Lowell, a goat owned by Kratmenos ran out and with force butted or ran into her, throwing her down upon the road.

Severe injuries which she claims she received incapacitated her for a long time and she alleges that in addition to the physical injuries sustained, she received a nervous shock. In a second count of her declaration, Mrs. Gosselin describes herself as "a woman of advanced years" and states that the goat butted her with great violence, so injuring her that she was unable to do her work as housekeeper for a long time.

Mrs. Gosselin alleges that she has not yet recovered from her injuries and claims $1500 damages. A jury trial is asked by her counsel, John J. Pickman of Lowell. An answer filed by the defendant denies all her allegations. His counsel is Warren W. Fox of Lowell.

OLDEST ROAD ON CONTINENT BUILT IN 16TH CENTURY

The oldest road on the North American continent is the old Spanish road built across Mexico in the 15th century. It is shaped like the letter "Y" with the stem starting at era Cruz on the Gulf. The northern prong touches the Pacific at San Blas, and the southern tip at Acapulco. Because of the road the westbound convoys from the Philippines were spared the dangerous navigation around Cape Horn.

There is still evidence that this old trail was used by the Indians before the Spaniards broadened it from a pack-mule path to a highway.—Indianapolis News.

REGIMENT OF COOKS FEED BRITISH ROYALTY

The royal kitchens at Windsor Castle and Buckingham Palace, which were overhauled during the absence of the King and Queen in the Scottish Highlands and are spick and span, are very interesting institutions.

It is said there is no royal house in the world where the kitchens are so well arranged as in the grimly gray castle at Windsor, the home of English sovereigns since the days of William the Conquerer. Built originally centuries ago, they have been remodelled from time to time to meet the neds of changed conditions, but wherever possible the old has been preserved and not infrequently English beef is served to King George which has been roasted on a spit that did duty in the days of the Plantagenet Kings.

Until the time of King Edward the royal menus where published for the benefit of the public, but King Edward abolished the practice and his son King George has followed suit.

Each kitchen at Windsor has a chef. One devotes himself to roasts, another to soups, a third to entrees, a fourth to pastries, etc. At the orders of each chef are four cooks who have under them a good-sized corps of assistants, altogether a force large enough to take care of the extraordinary demands upon the royal larder.

SCHOOLS AIDED BY RADIOCASTS

Oakland, Calif.—Radio again has come to the assistance of a great state educational system. Approximately 20,000 California school teachers scattered over the valleys and mountains of California are to have an easier time getting more than 600,000 children to be punctual in attendance at school.

A series of weekly programs furnished by the State Board of Education and radiocast by KCO combine entertainment with education. Will C. Wood, State Superintendent of Public Instruction, opened the series Nov. 3, to be followed by Prof. John C. Bolton, head of the history department, University of California, discoursing on "The Vikings of the Pacific," tales of the old pirates who put in at California bays and inlets, hinting a greater lesson in geography. Schools through out the state are reporting great enthusiasm for the venture, according to Grace C. Stanley, Commissioner of Elementary Schools, who has charge of the work.

It is planned to feature California history and geography in these radio lessons. Professors of the various universities and colleges of the state and other eminent educators will contribute. No lesson will exceed 20 minutes and will begin and end with music.

This is said to be the first time that a state-wide plan to use radio in public schools has ever been attempted. The idea originated in a conference recently on rural education held in San Francisco when requests were made by delegates that radio be employed to reach the rural school.

DEUSATEL MADE IT LIVELY FOR BROWN

Forced to the Mat Three Times the Lewiston Lad Comes Back

Eddie Deusatels made it lively for Young Brown of Eldeford in a six round bout at Lewiston. He put the Biddeford lad to the canvas three times but was unable to keep him there Brown showed plenty of activity regardless of the lacing given him by the Dover man.

Tiger Mac of Portland stopped Blue Nose Parent of Lewiston in two rounds after knocking him down for the count of eight in the first session. Parent made a rally in the second, but Mac came back strong and knocked the Lewiston lad for a goal.

HAVE NO CONNECTION

At a conference held last August the National Tuberculosis Association and American Red Cross decided to make a determined effort to remove the present widespread misunderstanding of the relation of these two organizations.

There is no connection between Red Cross Memberships and the sale of Christmas Seals. The public and all local workers should fully understand it. For the year 1924 the Red Cross Roll Call began, Armistice Day, Nov. 11, and ends Thanksgiving Day, Nov. 27. The Red Cross has agreed to notify all local chapters and canvassers that their work must be finished by, before Thanksgiving Day, Nov. 27.

The T. B. Seal Sale begins the day after Thanksgiving, Nov. 28, and the Tuberculosis Association agrees to notify all workers to sell no seals before Thanksgiving Day.

Many people believe the purchase of seals helps the Red Cross work. This is not true. The Christmas Seal is not a Red Cross Seal. The double-barred cross is the Tuberculosis Cross and the money received from the sale of Christmas Seals is all used to prevent and cure tuberculosis.

Uninformed local Red Cross workers have carried on their drives for memberships at their own convenience any time before Christmas. But the interference of the two sets of workers has become so great that both the Tuberculosis and Red Cross drives were injured and a united effort of both organizations was undertaken to stop it.

A freak of nature has been discovered in M. N. Cook's apple tree at Springfield, Mo.. He has harvested two crops of apples from the tree this year. The first crop was gathered in July. Two weks later the tree appeared in full bloom and on Armistice Day the second crop was picked. The apples are of the yellow transparent variety.

The Superhighway

Compared with Detroit's plan for a "superhighway" the best of our present highways, local, state or national, seem amateurish and trifling. Detroit has a big vision of the transportation future, and is starting to prepare for that future. It is acquiring right of way for 217 miles of highway, all 204 feet wide, which will include all the necessary kinds of suburban traffic and give full scope to the motor car.

In the middle there will be a space of 24 feet for rapid transit trolley lines, screened by trees and shrubs. On each side of this space will be a 20-foot roadway for express motor traffic, bordered by more shrubbery and a safety zone strip. Then there will be outside of these, 20-foot spaces for motor parking and 20-foot roadways for local motor traffic. The extreme outside will be 15 foot sidewalks for pedestrians.

No stream of traffic, whether trolley, express, motor, slow motor or pedestrian, will be allowed to cross any other. Streams of traffic will flow ahead smoothly and run easily into other streams. Crossings are provided for at intervals, overhead and underground.

Back of this pioneer highway engineering is a big idea. Detroit, creator of the motor age which changes the face of the land, has decided that the traffic problem is not merely to "decentralize traffic" but to "decentralize cities." It sees the future city as not one vast mass of population but a "metropolis," a "mother of cities," the central business place surrounded by many pleasant cities and towns, with the people living virtually in the country and coming and going quickly and easily in their automobiles. It is a glorious vision, which may prove true eventually for scores of American cities.

"American Militarism"

A Bolshevist is, generally speaking, chiefly remarkable in knowing so many things that are not so. Here is our gentle friend Trotzky running true to form in a nightmarish vision of American militarism.

"The United States," he says, "is assuming a place in the arena of militarism far beyond the dreams of Balkanized Europe. American industrial and gold power is being transformed into the stream of American militarism. American capitalism has reached the limit of its power in home markets and is compelled to seek expansion abroad. This being impossible by economic means, the United States will be compelled to overthrow European powers by military power. American militarism is raising its head high above the whole world as an advancing, destructive force.

We fought in the World War, declares Trotzky, to gain supremacy over England, which country in turn fought for supremacy over France. Now we are going to beat up the world in general to make it buy goods from us. He sees Bolshevism as "the only real obstacle in our path."

All of this, surely, is news to Americans, to be taken for what it is worth. Of more importance, perhaps, than the statements quoted above, is the fact that Trotzky made them to the Red army created by him as the good right arm of the Soviet government.

The rest of the world is probably more interested in Herr Trotzky's brand of militarism than ours.

An Open Back Door

The immigration law as it now stands leaves the back door open while we are putting up bars at the front door, according to James J. Davis, Secretary of Labor, who recommends legislation that would extend the selective system to countries not now subject to the quota restrictions and the doing away with the separation of families. The exemption of these countries from our quota limitations operates to make these contigous countries the bases for smuggling operations on a large scale.

He suggests enrolling immigrants and teaching them English, American history, traditions, ideals and institutions and enlisting the co-operation of civic and fraternal organizations, schools and churches to give them a comprehensive education in Americanism.

Pension Roll Decreases

More than 4000 names were dropped from the government pension roll during the past year, reducing the total to 525,539. The pensions for 1924 totalled $229,994,777, or $33,107,723 less than for the previous year of 1923.

The monetary gain to the country of thirty-three millions of dollars is likely to obscure the underlying fact that thousands of men who suffered injuries for their country, and in consequence have lived maimed and handicapped lives, have passed on. The decrease in the total of the pension roll is the result of the death of those heroes, who, in the flush of victory, were met with the home town brass band at the station when invalided home. Let us not, then, rejoice over the paltry dollars saved to the richest country in the world.

FACTS ABOUT N. H. SCHOOLS

This is American Education Week and citizens of New Hampshire should know these outstanding facts about the schools as a whole.

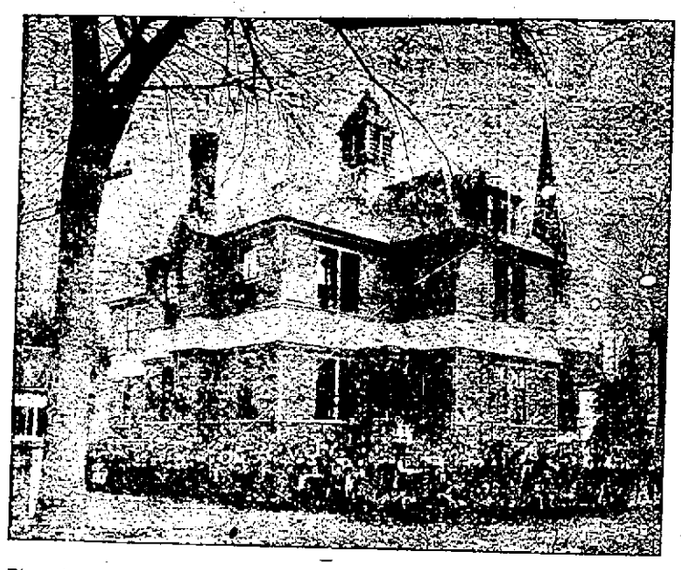

All New Hampshire children are now in school for a full year of 36 weeks. In 1919, 924 schools had a short school year; in 1924, 9 only. In the same time school attendance has increased 2.5 percent.

All New Hampshire children will soon have trained and equipped teachers. In 1919, 32 percent of our teachers were thoroughly trained and 34 per cent wholly untrained. In 1924, 63 per cent were wholly trained and only 6 percent were wholly untrained. In these same years the number of teachers in preparation at our normal schools has increased from 240 to 710.

These changes have been brought about without placing upon any district an unreasonably severe burden of taxation. This is because the wealthy towns and cities give liberal aid to poor districts.

President Hetzel has this to say about the University of New Hampshire: "The state university continues to show gratifying improvement and development. The enrollment of regular four-year students for the fall term is 1171, of which number 850 are men and 321 are women. This is double the enrollment for the college year 1918 and four times the number enrolled in 1913. Seventy-five percent are from New Hampshire homes, and represent 95 percent of the accredited high schools and academies of the state. Keeping abreast with the growing enrollment there has proceeded an improvement in standards of work, a strengthening of the personnel and a marked improvement in the general efficiency of the institution. Within the past two years a summer school has been established, graduate courses have been organized in twenty departments of the university, and extension study for college credit has been inaugurated. The work of the agricultural experiment station and the extension service is of a very high order. The change in the name of the institution, which was authorized by the last legislature, has brought increased recognition from the educational world and has resulted in very greatly improving the educational standing of its graduates. Our university has taken its place in the ranks of the strong state institutions of higher learning of the country."

AS IT LOOKED YEARS AGO

The picture shows the old St. Patrick's school as it looked long before the present building was constructed during the rectorship of the late Rev. P. J. Finnigan. The former or first school was established and the building erected under the supervision of the late Rev. E. M. O'Callaghan many years the pastor of the local parish. Nearly all the old building was removed when the more modern and larger school was found necessary. Several of the boys in the group earned their first money as Herald carriers and many of them are today hold ing good positions in life in various parts of the country. This picture was taken on the occasion of the presentation of the National Flag by the Storer Post No. 1, G. A. R.

Plans are under way for a spectacular Christmas pageant to be presented at the Second Methodist church on the evening of Sunday, Dec. 21. Plan now to be present.

Regular services were held at the Second M. E. church on Sunday. Rev. E. W. Robinson preached upon the subject, "Making the Most of Our Minds." Our minds are one of the greatest gifts that God has given us. He has trusted it to us and we should do all we can to develop and improve it. In order to keep our minds fit we must keep the rest of our bodies in good condition. We should use our minds more than we do. It has been said that the average person uses about one-tenth of his mind. We are apt to be mentally lazy. We can improve our minds by reading and by thinking out problems. We should think more and keep our minds active and alert. The sermon was very interesting. Howard Paul was soloist at this service. Another interesting service was held at 7 o'clock. The service was opened by a selection by the orchestra. After a short praise service Rev. Mr. Robinson gave an interesting discussion on the "Town Meeting Form of Government." The topic of the sermon was "Life's Rainbows." The pastor gave a short discussion on the sorrows of life and how much we appreciated the rainbows after a storm. After this sermon a group of children dramatized the story of the "Ten Virgins." Special musical numbers at this service were a duet by Mrs. Edith Rounds and Miss Alphiel Widell and a clarinet solo by William Pickering of the Navy Yard band.

P. H. S. PLAYS FINE GAME AT CONCORD

Crippled Eleven Holds Strong Opponents to a Scoreless Tie

Portsmouth High played Concord High to a scoreless game at Concord on Saturday and missed winning on a field goal by the narrowest of margins. Ferrinni's kick passing over the goal post but outside far enough to lose the points. Portsmouth, with a badly crippled team, found Concord to have a team that is about the best they have met this season and under those circumstances Portsmouth was fortunate to secure a tie.

Portsmouth outplayed the home team in the first and last periods while Concord had the jump in the second period when it looked as though they would score. They pushed Portsmouth down the field in a series of end runs that brought them within scoring distance, but Portsmouth bucked up and held them on the three-yard line for downs and then kicked the ball out of danger. This was a great piece of defense work and after that Concord was at no time real dangerous on straight football.

In the first period Portsmouth, by line rushes, carried the ball well into Concord territory and were on the ten-yard line but an attempt at a forward pass failed. A number of passes were tried and very few were ground gainers for either team.

In the last half Portsmouth showed a superior attack but it was not up to their usual game, for the backfield is badly crippled. Gelman and Harriman are both out with broken bones, the former a small bone in the ankle and the latter a toe. Hatch has a badly wrenched shoulder, Mullane has water on the knee, Flanagan has a wrenched shoulder and none of these regulars were played. Noel and Wiggin, while on the injured list, played a part of the game and McCann, who has been laid up all season, played the greater part of the game but did not go as well as he usually does.

Fullam ran the team, playing his first game at quarter and was the star of the locals. McCarthy is now playing a regular halfback position and seems at home there. Voudy, an end, had to be shifted into a guard position on account of three guards being on the injured list.

The team was accompanied by a loyal band of rooters, in fact there were almost as many from this city as from Concord and they formed a cheering section that made itself heard. There was a generous response on the part of automobile owners and two buses were run, so that practically all the student body who wanted to go were able to attend the game.

The High school has but one more game on its schedule, playing Biddeford here next Saturday, and this will be the hardest game of the season for Biddeford has had a wonderful season. Coach Rice expects by the last of the week to have more of the regulars able to play unless they receive a setback this week, and with a good hard workout the team should be in a position next Saturday to show its real stuff.

Chats with your GAS man

THANKSGIVING DAY is one of the busiest days in the year for us. It is like Christmas, New Year's Day and the other splendid holidays when family reunions are held, and when the palate is tickled by good things to eat cooked at home.

On these days the consumpton of gas begins to rise immediately after breakfast is over and during the noon and evening hours it jumps up rapidly, a new record generally being made each year.

To anticipate these huge demands—to build up a storage supply of gas which will enable the housewife to cook the turkey properly and prepare the other delicacies—that is the responsibility placed on the gas man.

Can you remember any time when he has failed to make good?

TIMELY SERMON BY REV. JONES

Unitarian Pastor Warns of Wasteful Haste in Life

At the South (Unitarian) church on Sunday morning the minister, Rev. William Safford Jones, preached an able and timely sermon on "Aimless Haste" and was listened to with much interest by the congregation. He chose his text from St. Matthew 28:7, "Go quickly," and was in part as follows:

"The story is told of the famous English scientist Huxley that arriving at Dublin one day for a meeting of the British Association for the Advancement of Science, which he was to address, and finding himself late, he jumped into a cab and told the cabman to drive fast, to drive like mad. At the end of an hour, during which they had rushed at a breakneck pace through the streets of the city, Huxley put his head out of the window and asked the cabman if they were not almost there. To which he replied, "where, sir? You didn't tell m where to drive, but merely to drive fast, to go like mad. I have done so for an hour. I have obeyed your orders to the letter, but we havn't got anywhere because you didn't tell me where to go."

"This story of Huxley and the Dublin cabman is a parable of western civilization in our age—going quickly, driving like mad, but not sure where it is going and often driving in a circle because of having no definite goal. On account of the danger to the inner qualities of the individual and the higher life of the community in such mad, unreasoning, aimless haste I propose to use this text today, not as an exhortation to go and do likewise, but as a kind of danger signal, warning us not to take this path of wasteful haste. The world in which we live needs no urging to go quickly, but I wish to point out some of the dangers involved in such mad-rushing nowhere. Caught as we all are in this press forward without any definite goal in sight, we need to stop now and then and consider our course, whether it is determined by sound judgment and wise choice of ends and values or whether we are rushing onward like the rest of our fellow-mortals, with no clear idea where we are going, whether we are well-equipped for the journey, whether the goal is worthy of our ambition and effort, whether such aimless, unreasoning haste is of any real worth to us physically or intellectually or morally or spiritually. I feel sure that nothing is so detrimental to our higher life as individuals and as communities as merely going quickly. The real waste of time and energy caused by such progress in a circle is of incalculable harm to us all. It is so easy to be caught in this undirected modern rush, it is so hard to get over its bad effects.

"First of all, there are perils luring in the business world, and the young men just entering upon its duties and facing its temptations and taking up its responsibilities are too often enamored by the notion of getting rich quickly. They do not stop to consider whether they are well-fitted by temperament and training for commercial and financial success. They do not take sufficient time to strengthen their weak points, to put necessary knowledge in the place of unnecessary ignorance, to gird themselves carefully for a strife which will call for all their resources of brain and will. They do not look ahead far enough and plan their campaigns of vigirous effort accordingly. No, they are likely to be swept off their feet by the mad rush for wealth and place and power, and before they half realize it they find themselves tossed about from one position to another, too anxious to get to the top before they have fairly got started at the bottom, tearing aimlessly about from one concern to another and from one line of work to another, always under the spell of a false ideal. They are so eager to get rich quickly that they fail to prepare themselves quietly and thoroughly, to attain efficiency in any chosen field and win success in their life-work.

In the educational field, also, there are evident dangers. The mad rush which many young men make to get rich quickly is only matched by the mad rush which many make to find some short cut, some quick road, to education. Nothing ought to be so drilled at home and in school into the minds and consciences of youth as the idea that acquiring knowledge is a long, hard and necessarily slow process. There is no royal road to learning quickly traversed in a lordly and careless fashion. Knowledge does not come to us in any such rapid and easy way. But boys and girls must be taught this lesson early, or as they grow older they may come under the ruinous domination of the notion that after all it isn't necessary to spend so much time pegging away earnestly and faithfully at task after task, when they might be moving swiftly and delightfully through field after field of education. It is necessary to cultivate patience and not to despise industry. There must be a contant hammering away at the pliable will of youth, or he will come to fancy that he can secure knowledge as well as win success in life by a series of mad spurts, adequate preparation being dismissed with clear-cut aims as secondary considerations. Not going quickly, but going slowly and surely, should be the goal. That is a word for Education Week.

"Another peril of our time is the feverish pursuit of pleasure. Men and women under a high nervous tension in our busy age need relaxation and amusement. Perhaps they never needs it so much as now. But it is sad, appalling, to see the way in which many try to find happiness and pleasure. They rush about in droves seeking it, usually at the expense of health and in defiance of common sense. In summer great multitudes of men and women, dragging poor tired children, rush about from beach to beach and from resort to resort, with no clear idea of what they want and what they need. All classes, all social extremes, are suffering from unwise forms of pleasure-seeking. A kind of crazy excitement seems at times to overbear every sensible diversion and rational amusement.

"And there is a subtle danger threatening the spiritual life of the Christian today in the rush of activities in which he finds himself immersed. In his eagerness to translate the Christian spirit into action, in his anxiety to make his religion a concrete, verifiable reality, in his fear lest people will think that he is clinging to some ascetic ideal of cloistered seclusion, he often throws himself headlong into all kinds of unrelated philanthropies and charities and surveys and researches. Sometimes the result is that he becomes a sort of sociological busybody and does not accomplish anything definite and make himself of real use to the community. He tries one social experiment after another, but does not get anywhere, as we say, because he runs around in a circle. Motive and aim may be good, but no real goal is reached in this feverish activity which so many modern Christians affect.

"THE TEN COMMANDMENTS"

to reach the highest point of artistic perfection so far achieved in the making of the motion pictures. Nearly three thousand people were employed in the creation of the film. A touring orchestra of twenty men accompanies the picture and performs an elaborate musical score arranged by Dr. Hugo Riesenfeld. "The Ten Commandments" will be shown twice daily, at 2.30 and 8.30, during the three day engagement at the Colonial. It will not be presented elsewhere in this city during the present season. 1t n17

NEW CASTLE

New Castle, N. H., Nov. 17—However flowless the ways of grim November, we should remember one time she sets apart for royal living. It is Thanksgiving—the day so dear to the heart of every New Englander. There will be many home runs to join in family reunions and to match affection with affection and in glad intercourse spend the hours in thankful remembrance of the "tie that binds." The housewives in the Island Town are busy perfecting plans to celebrate the festive holiday.

Gordon Pridham has returned from a brief visit to Auburn.

Henry Flemming passed Sunday in Epping.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Green are the guests of friends in Lynn, Mass.

Miss Ellen Holtt passed the weekend dat her home in Durham.

Charles McDonald of Newburyport, Mass., was a recent visitor at the White cottage.

One does not wonder that the Salvation Army is so successful with its undertakings. In these cold days before Thanksgiving Day the Army lassies of Portsmouth are to be seen on duty where the crowd is thickest. Their coin boxes are visual sermons. As I watched them I thought the harvest of pennies, nickles and dimes was not very large, but the respectful way they were treated was good evidence that the public has come to appreciate the efforts of members of the organization during the holiday season.

Porter Hanscom of Portsmouth passed Sunday with relatives in town.

Mrs. Dora Curtis and daughter Olive, after a visit with relatives, have returned to their home in Gloucester, Mass.

Frank Cousins and family passed Sunday in Gloucester, Mass.

It is very gratifying to learn that Franklin Davidson is more comfortable. His many friends wish for him a speedy and complete recovery.

There is much pleasant anticipation relative to American Educational Week, Nov. 17-21.

The aftermath of pleasant and otherwise discussion of the election has hardly subsided. We all know it is a time when no Streph stunts are done. A few in the town have been painted in tints of Sepia and monotone, largely reminding one of the story of the little girl who had always been unafraid to go to bed alone when suddenly she took on the condition of harrowing fear all of her mother's comforting assurance did not avail. "I'm afraid; I'm afraid," sh ewould cry. In desperation her mother said: "Why darling, when you know that God will take care of you, what have you to fear?" Between her sobs she said, "I'm afraid I will find a republican under my bed."

BIG CROWD FROM THIS CITY AT DURHAM GAME

Nearly 300 people from this city attended the New Hampshire-Bates game at Durham on Saturday and saw the strong state team run away with Bates, 30 to 0. Carleton Wiggin, a former High school coach, is assistant coach at Bates and was greeted by a number of friends from this city.

The followers of the New Hampshire team are predicting that it will give Brown a touch battle next Saturday in its final game. New Hampshire has a great backfield and a powerful line and if the Durham boys play as they have been the Brown players will have their work cut out for them.

LIBERAL DONATION

A large donation of good things and staple groceries was sent on Thursday to the Wentworth Home for Invalids on Pleasant street by the parochial school. A truckman, aided by four boys of the school, brought the goods to the Home and the gift was greatly appreciated. It seemed as if there was nothing forgotten as there were many pounds of sugar, coffee, tea, canned goods, jars of jelly and preserves, fruit, vegetables, bars of soap, etc. It gave evidence that the pupils of the parochial school wished to do their share in the annual donation given this worthy institution.

REPORT HEAVY ADVANCE SALE

The advance sale of tickets for the big vaudeville show to be given on Thursday for the benefit of the Winter Sports association began this forenoon at the Colonial theatre and there was a big sale. The sale will continue at this theatre until the night of the show, which will be held in the Portsmouth theatre.

The show will be one of the best vaudeville performances that has ever been given in this city. They are all Keith acts which means that the performers are all artists and some of the acts have been at the Boston house within a short time.

The Winter Sports association hopes that there will be such a response on the part of the public that the house will be sold out and they hope to secure enough money to carry on the work at the Pines this winter without soliciting additional funds from the public. There has been a lot of work necessary to get the place ready and there is the pay of at least two men all the time that the Pines is in operation, as well as the electric light bill and equipment. No expense has been sppared to make the show on Thursday evening a good one.

ALUMNI WINS FROM MARINES

Take Benefit Game at Playgrounds by Score of 9 to 0

The High School Alumni defeated the Marines on Saturday afternoon at the playgrounds in a benefit game for Harry Gamester who was injured in the game on Navy Day. There was a good crowd and they witnessed a well played and hard fought game. It was hardly an alumni team as there were several additions to the lineup of the first of the season, but at that, the Marines gave them a hard battle.

The locals were unable to make any material gains through the line on end runs, and won on open football. Cullinan made all of the scores, kicking a field goal in the first period and in the third period taking a touchdown from a forward pass after Weeks had recovered the ball on a fumble in the Marines territory.

The lineup and summary:

ALUMNI (9)		MARINES (0)
Weeks le		re Schuster
Conover le
Goodell lt		rt Mayers
Ellis lg		rg Dybing
O'Leary c		c Morgan
Gleason rf		lg Pace
Mercer rt		lt Meyerhoffer
T. Connors re		le Arkell
Gamester re
Cullinan qb		qb Speace
P. Connors lhb		rhb Ashley
Timmons lhb
Hassan fb		fb Jacobs

Touchdown—Cullinan. Field goal—Cullinan. Referee—McCarthy. Umpire Thomas. Linesman—Gamester.
